PROJECTION OF POWER AND PERFORMANCE

Excellent Instruments for Excellent Orchestras

"A good army works like a good orchestra. Every instrument must work together in perfect harmony. Communication between the conductor and the players works silently. Each instrument functions alone, but only as it should – in its own role. The players must be able to rely on their instruments; no dissonance is allowed. The timing must be perfect and the rhythm right. The power of the music can be overwhelming and disarming – if played right."
